Name of Creator: Charles Rand Penney

Biographical History:

Charles P. Penney, Jr. was born on July 26, 1923 in Buffalo, New York, where he was educated at the Elmwood and Nichols Schools. In 1934, he received his first piece of art, which inspired him to later begin collecting. After continuing his education in Connecticut at the Hotchkiss School, Penney entered Yale University, yet was drafted into World War II after one year. There, he served as a counter-intelligence officer for the U.S. Army before returning to Yale and receiving a Bachelor of Arts Degree in Chinese studies in 1947. He graduated from the University of Virginia Law School in 1951.

Penney toured Europe after graduation, the beginning of many more overseas excursions in the years to come. Upon his return, he practiced law in Maryland before eventually opening his own firm in Buffalo, where he became a popular attorney. Penney slowly began his art and memorabilia collection at this time. After his mother's death in 1960 and his decision to change his name to Charles Rand Penney in honor of her, Penney held a couple of different work positions for the next several years.

In the 1960s, Penney pursued his love of boating and auto rallying, accompanied by his purchase of a home in Olcott Beach. There, he turned his home into a sort of museum, showcasing various art pieces and collections he had accumulated. It was at this time that collecting, community enrichment, and especially traveling had become serious pursuits for Penney. Other than obtaining more objects for his collection on these trips, Penney also took thousands of photographs and kept detailed journals of his travels.

Eventually, Penney rented the floor of an office building to house his massive accumulation—he had created more than 100 remarkable collections of art and cultural artifacts. These international collections, several of which toured around the world, include contemporary painting and sculpture, folk art, antiques, World Exposition memorabilia, and 20th-century American art by Charles E. Burchfield, Emil Ganso, and Robert Goodnough.

In 1991 and 1992, Penney donated his collection of Western New York Art to the Burchfield Art Center. In 1994, Penney presented his collections of works by Charles E. Burchfield, Roycroft artists, and craft artists from Western New York, with documentary records and library materials on each. On April 9, 1994, the museum was rededicated as the Burchfield Penney Art Center to honor his generous patronage. Buffalo State College presented him with an honorary Doctorate of Fine Arts in May of 1995. During the course of his lifetime, Dr. Penney lectured about art and antiques across the United States and in more than 75 countries as distant as Siberia, Mongolia, Indonesia, and Tahiti.

On August 1, 2010, Charles Rand Penney passed away due to heart failure.

Administrative History:

The majority of the collection was received in the early 1990s in conjunction with Penney's donation of Western New York Art to the Burchfield Art Center, but some archival materials continued to be acquired into the 2000s. Some artist files have been integrated into Burchfield Penney Art Center's artist files, but the majority of his materials are accumulated here. The collection is still in the original file folders acquired from Penney (with future goals of rehousing), and the original order is retained within each folder, and contextually between folders inasmuch as was preserved in the transfer from Penney to the Burchfield Penney Art Center.
